A little about me

I'm a young woman at the age of 27, and currently living in the small town of Korsør with my boyfriend. Originally I am a hairstylist, and have worked both in denmark and abroad. Unfortunately I got a back injury, and couldn't continue working in the beauty industry. I've always been interested in being creative and learning new things, therefore I chose to start at Zealand Business and IT Academy and study Multimediadesign.

Over the past year it has become clear to me that I've fallen in love with "the art of" programming. That is why I am now looking for an internship as a Junior Front-end Developer.

I have been used to quite a commute beforehand, and wouldn't mind driving for up to an hour and a half to get to work (I have a car). I always work hard on the projects I'm involved in and are very eager to learn new things. I'm currently doing some online courses in Javascript and React on my own time.

I wish to work at a place where there's room for learning and improving, as well as doing some awesome work. The social aspect of my work life is also very important to me, as I am a very social person by nature.
